Let Us Have the Square Thing.

The Poor Fund Distributed.

The commissioners have apportioned the poor fund appropriation as follows: Pay of physicians to the poor, $5,289; medicine for poor and printing, $3,300; Central dispensary, $2,400; Women's distrensary, $150; Homeopathic dispensary, $150; Homeopathic hospital, $20; medicine for Homeopathic hospital, $20; medicine for Homeopathic hospital, $20; medicine for Homeopathic women's home, $250; night lodging house, $400; police distribution, $2,000. There is such a thing as abusing a good thing, and while every one wishes well to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Ani-Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, yet the intemperate zeal of some of its agents deserves public condemnation. Several such instances have occurred lately. These agents may indict great damage to the business of individuals at their own sweet will, and there is no iredress when cases are dismissed in the police court, for the society is not incorporated and its directors responsible pecuniarily when by mistake of pure cussedness they indied damage upon the business of merchants or others by arbitrary arrests.

There are one or two points that are suggested in this matter: The judge of the police court is a member of the society, and according to the infirmity and bias of human nature must naturally lean to the side of the accuser because one-half the fine goes into the coffers of the society. Second, there is no power of redress or action for damages resultant to a party who has been arrested and acquitted, no matter to what inconvenience and damage be has been put to and has incurred by the arrest.

matter to what inconvenience and damage he has been put to and has incurred by the arrest. Third, this irresponsible society has employed a lot of agents, women among them, who don't know a horse unfit for work from a side of sole leather. Every one acquainted with horse worked daily at this time of the year knows that even with the best of care their backs are liable to be chafed, but by using proper pads the sore will get well fully as quickly when the animal is at work as when idle. Altogether we think this society and its agents need to go slow, in common parlance.

The Fost, in an editorial touching sporting natters, says: "It would necessarily be de-chared a dead heat between two horses run-ning or trotting together if they differed only a quarter second." a quarter second."

If the horses were running at a 1:10 guit, not unusual in a driving inish, 13.2 feet would be the distance between two horses measured by a quarter second. The distance measured by a quarter second between two first-class trotters doing their best lick would be about ten feet. It is submitted, with due difference to the opinion of the sporting editor of the Post, that a competent judging of racing can see a difference of thirteen feet between two running horses as they note the post and

A general order was issued by Chief of Police Dre restorday making a new assignment of the pelice licutenants. They were changed about in an effort, apparently, to place them as far as possible from their residences a year since, but the assignments were only supposed to be temporary. Now the officers are in most cases replaced in their former precipiets. The changes are as follows: Beteler from the first or South Washington precipit to the clighth or Navy Yard, Pearson remains in the second or county, Keily from the third (Georgetown) to the seventil (Swampoolilo, Arnold from the fourth first ward) to the fifth (sentral), Austin from the fifth to the sixth (Massachusetts avenue), Guy from the sixth to the fourth, Geosford from the seventil, and detailed as night inspector; Greer from the eighth to the first, Restway from night inspector to the third precipiet. The change goes into effect at noon to-morrow.
